

Who Made the List?

Capterra limited the list to comparable products. In this case, it excluded a number of products that focus on areas other than document management, like collaboration.

For this infographic, we decided to limit the definition by taking out any product that seemed to focus more on collaboration than document management (like SharePoint, Dropbox, Google Drive, etc.).

However, in order to qualify vendors for the infographic, we made sure they offered document storage/image capture in addition to one or more additional features. The majority in this case included tracking, sharing, or security in addition to storage."

Without further ado, here are this year's top 20 document management vendors, according to Capterra:

